

Me and you

I am a river, running wild
You are the tree, standing tall
Rising up along my bed, slowing me down
While I vanish into the ground.

You are a burning candle, ready to be lit
I am the red fire, holding my flame high
Dancing around you, with all my heart
Keeping you and me, forever warm and alive.

I am the rock, hard and tough
You are the water, free and wild
Flowing free, through my heart
To soften me to become kind.

You are the wild flower, among the rocks
I am the humming bee, flying free and high
Tasting your sweet nectar, as I kiss
To be honey, seize to be a beast.

I am a tree, stand tall and free
You are the leaves, scatter all over me
Who adorns me above all, glad to be.
Give me meaning, stay don't leave.

You are the fertile land called earth

I am the seed of a thousand roots
Anxious but calm, rising above
A field of dreams to become one.

I am a snow flake, cold and pure
You are the wild rain, kiss me as you come
Melting me as I vanish into the earth
Easing the thirst for me with your love.

You are the fire, known as a sun
I am a the earth, cold at dark
Shining on me to warm my heart
Both becoming one as our time comes.

Ata Servati
Tarzana California,
January, 25, 2005

© 2009 Ata Servati. Unauthorized duplication or publication is prohibited.